

ABSTRACT

The present disclosure relates to a system and method for displaying graphics.

In one arrangement, the method can comprise the steps of receiving an identification of graphical data representing the graphic, and facilitating transmission of the graphical data representing the graphic to the electrical device such that the electrical 5 device can display the graphic. In another arrangement, the method can comprise the steps of receiving graphical data from a computing device, receiving an indication as to how the graphic is to be displayed, and displaying the graphic according to the received indication.

09982906 101801